

After a year without Bible Drill, popular ministry comes roaring back

The final tournaments of the 2021 Bible Drill season were held at Parkway Church, Clinton, on April 24, the culmination of a year full of challenges for churches and drillers.

Angie Boydston, consultant in the Discipleship/Sunday School Department of the Mississippi Baptist Convention Board, noted the Bible Drill ministry was revived for 2021 after a missed year during the COVID-19 pandemic.

“We faced the same challenges that churches were facing, when they found a way to have church,” she said. “That was our theme; we just needed to find a way. Churches were doing Bible Drill outside, and to be honest we considered that for state drills.

“We had to consider spaces in churches. We had to go in larger spaces than we did in the past. We had to have drills in worship centers, fellowship halls, and other places. We had the crowd issue... Some churches did the drills in ‘waves’ or ‘groups,’ to accommodate the crowds. We had to figure out a way to [accommodate people].”

It was important that observers not be left out completely. “We had to figure out a way to limit it as much as possible,” Boydston continued. “This was the least popular thing we did, but we know it was something we needed to do. Churches found a way to have Bible Drills, and we wanted to do the same thing.

“We were one of the few state conventions that decided to have

Bible Drills this go-around. We knew we didn't want to miss it for another year." The state had the same number of sites for drills this year as in previous years. Sites included:

- First Church, Starkville.
- Emmanuel Church, Grenada.
- Harrisburg Church, Tupelo.
- First Church, McComb.
- Petal Harvey Church, Petal.
- Brandon Church, Brandon.
- First Church, Batesville.
- Poplar Springs Drive Church, Meridian.
- First Church, Clinton.
- Hillcrest Church, New Albany.
- Parkway Church, Clinton.

"We chose not to eliminate any sites," Boydston said. "That helped us because we knew our crowds would be down and the volunteer base would be down.

"Our volunteers - judges, callers, and others - well, we couldn't have done this without them," Boydston pointed out. "They stepped up and were a part of Bible Drill. Kids won scholarships this year which they would not have been able to do, had we not done Bible Drill.

"Kids learned Scriptures that hopefully will be with them forever, and that couldn't have happened if churches hadn't held Bible Drills."
